for two days, but finally was forced to yield.

The Giants didn't lose a series. The scrape with the Reds, 3-2, was the only thing close. The champions took four in a row from the Cards, three straight and tied one with the Cubs, two in succession from the Pirates. That's steam rolling?

The Cards broke even after a wretched start against New York. Bresnáhan's gang bumped the Braves and Superbas pretty hard, and really outplayed the Phillies, although they dropped the latter's series, 3-2.

The saddest showing was made by Boston, which lost 11 and won three. Brooklyn lost 10 and won three. Chroinnath lead the west with 9-6, while Chicago got away with a 7-5 break. The Cardinals played more games than any other team, having but one postponement, with Boston. Here are the figures:
